

Are we nearly there yet?

Name that tune

Kids love making music – well, noise. So here's the perfect game to help them refine their talents and improve their ear for a tune.

All you need are your hands and something to tap.

The game starts when the first tapper beats out the tune of a song on their legs, the seat, the roof, the window – pretty much anything. It's then up to the rest of the car to decipher the song that's being played.

Try using songs with familiar drum beats and less singing – it's a lot easier this way. The winner is the person to guess correctly first. Then, it's their turn.
