Touring tips

It's compulsory to carry the following in Czech Republic

- First-aid kit
- A set of replacement bulbs
- A set of replacement fuses
- Warning triangle (not required for two-wheeled vehicles)
- Reflective jacket (EU standard EN471) You must carry a reflective jacket or waistcoat and wear it in the event of a breakdown or emergency outside a built up area, on all roads, expressways and motorways. It has to be worn when exiting the vehicle and therefore must be kept within the car (not in the boot). A reflective jacket/waistcoat is recommended for passengers and riders of mopeds/motorcycles. All pedestrians must wear some form of reflective material in reduced visibility and on unlit roads outside built up areas.

Winter equipment

- Winter tyres (which must be marked M+S) are compulsory from 1 November to 31 March* on all wheels of passenger vehicles when there is compacted snow or ice on the road.
- They are also compulsory whenever the temperature is lower than 4C and there is a possibility of snow or ice on the road.
- These regulations also apply during winter periods on roads where the below sign is placed, even if it is free of snow and ice.
- The minimum tread depth on winter tyres is 4mm.
- Snow chains can only be used when roads are completely covered with enough snow to protect the road surface.

* This period may be extended dependant upon weather conditions.

Touring tips

A level crossing is marked with either alternating red and yellow lights, yellow or red flag or the International railway crossing sign.

The authorities at the frontier must certify any visible damage to a vehicle entering the Czech Republic. If any damage occurs inside the country you must obtain a police report at the scene of the accident. Damaged vehicles may only be taken out of the country on production of this evidence.

You may only use your horn in built-up areas to avoid imminent danger.

You must not use your horn between 8pm and 6am and at any time in Prague.

You must not use spiked tyres.

A Satnav system must have any fixed speed camera location function deactivated.

The use of radar detectors is prohibited.

Emergency corridor

In the event of an accident and subsequent congestion on a motorway, drivers must form an emergency corridor – at least 3 metres wide – so that emergency services can quickly reach the scene of the accident.

If you're in the left lane you must move over to the left and if you're in the right lane you must move over to the right. If there are more than two lanes, the corridor should be created between the far right lane and the rest of lanes to its left.
